“Demand Driven Supply Chain Methodology”

Today's supply chains are much more complex and volatile than ever.

Despite this obvious difference in circumstances conventional MRP systems still plan precisely the same way today as they did 50 years ago

Demand Driven MRP combines some of the still relevant aspects of Material Requirements Planning (MRP) and Distribution Requirements Planning (DRP) with the pull and visibility emphases found in Lean and the Theory of Constraints and the variability reduction emphasis of Six Sigma.

These elements are successfully blended through key points of innovation in the DDMRP method. DDMRP is the supply order generation and management engine of a Demand Driven Operating Model (DDOM).

We will introduce you the methodology created by the Demand Driven Institute for 1h meeting in partnership with the APICS Albuquerque chapter. During this meeting we will share simulation results and return of experience of implementations of the methodology.
